General Comment

We feel this was truly false and firstly, Uniloc doesn't have limits to itself and requires a punishment. On the other hand, Xplane, has been promoted in our company along with Microsoft's showcase program. We feel, as profits speak, Xplane team and uniloc should start counting time left to be removed from markets. Just because uniloc is based in australia working on patents, doesn't mean it can do anything to defy others. It doesn't have intelligent brains and exceptional people that individually can create great things.
