

The United States Patent and Trademark Office (USPTO) extends an invitation to interested data management and transformation industry leaders and organizations to participate in the virtual Modernization of Publication (MOP) Industry Communication Event on Thursday, October 24, from 10-11:30 a.m. (ET). Attendees are encouraged to share insights and experiences to help the USPTO improve its existing data management solution and identify potential alternative solutions. Registration is required.

Discussion topics will focus on the modernization of data management processes, enhancement of data availability during patent examination and publication, and obtaining relevant industry feedback that designed to shape the future of USPTO data management. Presenters will discuss the USPTO's data management progress, provide a demonstration, and explore opportunities to collaborate.

This meeting is part of the USPTO's continued efforts to engage and partner with the intellectual property community, and we look forward to your individual views and contributions. Please review relevant disclaimers below.

MOP Industry Communication Event Disclaimers

- The sole purpose of this industry communication event is for the USPTO to gather information from industry attendees as to their capabilities relative to these topic(s).
- All information provided by the USPTO is subject to change as future requirements are refined and additional information is developed.
- The USPTO may conduct additional industry days in the future or gather information via other market research methods.
- The USPTO is not currently soliciting proposals relative to this industry day and it is possible that a solicitation may never be issued relative to this event. Any unsolicited proposals received in response to this event will be returned to the submitter and not further considered.
- Industry engagement/responses shall not contain ANY PROPRIETARY OR TRADE SECRET INFORMATION in response to this market research request.
- Attendees should assume all information provided any attendee or the USPTO will be used and discussed with other industry partners and the public, and additionally, may be used in refining the USPTO's requirements or in future market research efforts.
- Any verbal and/or written information provided by either the attendees or the USPTO is not binding upon the USPTO or attendees.
- No information provided by any attendee will be evaluated for purpose of a contract award.
- Your involvement in the virtual event is strictly voluntary.
- No costs of any kind shall be charged to the Government.
- In the event the USPTO intends to enter into a contractual agreement for service(s) related to these topics, the USPTO will provide the appropriate notice in accordance with the applicable procurement statutes.
- Feedback following the event is encouraged and greatly welcomed. Standard questions will be added to this special notice prior to October 24, 2024 and shared at the event.

For more information, contact
MOPindustry@uspto.gov.